This year Wilson's Music Department have offered free instrumental tuition to every student in Year 7. Students were asked to choose from a selection of nine instruments including voice. Eighteen members of the band are performing this evening on the instruments they chose at the start of the year after only ten months' tuition and deserve special congratulations for their efforts tonight.

Beauty and the Beast is the latest in a long and successful history of school productions at Wilson's School.

Please see the school's website for further details of our productions and stay tuned for announcement of two school productions taking planned for next academic year!
